FLOATS SECTION OF 1914 TO EXCEL, SAYS CHAIRMAN of the Indian. The Portuguese newspaper, O Luso, and A Patria society are combining interest in putting in a fine marine float representing an early exploring expedition of the hardy Portuguese navigators. The Spanish War Veterans will enter a military float of considerable magnitude. The Spaulding Musical Comedy Co. will show their aloha for Honolulu by turning out in nearly full strength in some float of a comic nature which will raise hearty laughs from the spectators.

"For the first time in the history of parades in Honolulu the humble but interesting carabao will have proper attention. The Honolulu School for Boys will use this neglected animal and a couple of his brothers to haul one of their floats. This school will have three entries in the floats section. The Honolulu Construction & Drying Co. will have a beautiful allegorical float, called 'The Birth of Hawaii,' which is bound to attract attention. Miss Miles, a beautiful Hawaiian girl, will represent Hawaii in this interesting entry. The entry by the Merchants' Association will be worthy of note.

"A float that will show us that we ought to 'See Our Territory First,' and one that will intensely interest the visiting friends, is the 'Spouting Horn of Koloa,' which is entered by the island of Kauai. This spouting horn is a real spouter, and will be active at intervals all along the line of march. As the water will be under control, umbrellas will not need to be raised by bystanders! However, this will be noticed to be a correct representation of the Kauai wonder. Another 'live' float will be entered by the island of Hawaii and will represent the Volcano of Kilauea in action. This should make a great hit, and probably will. "The Japanese community and the Chinese community will each have a very gorgeous and spectacular entry, while the Canadians in Hawaii from Calgary are framing up an exhibit which they say will 'knock the spots' of any float which any other nation dares to enter. The Inter-Island S. N. Co. will have a very neat reproduction of the Mauna Kea steamer in the parade, and this float will vie with the reproduction of the new Matsonia which Castle & Cooke are entering.

"The Young Erin society is also to have a historical float which will be quite elaborate. A young squadron of outriders will accompany this entry. Other floats will be entered by the Fire Department, Outrigger Canoe Club, Outrigger Canoe Club Women's Auxiliary, Honolulu Gas Co., City Transfer Co., Good Templars, Eagles, Y. M. C. A., Public Schools, Ad Club, Marconi Wireless Co., 2nd U. S. Infantry, National Guards, Elks, Husbands-Peck & Co., C. Q. Yee Hop & Co. and many others. "The Hawaiian Pineapple Co. will enter a float which will adequately show one of the big resources of Hawaii. "I feel sure the public will know the floats committee has acquitted itself well, as it has worked early and late, long and often, to make this year's float section set a standard so high that future float parades will have to more than hump themselves to better. At least, that was our aim, and next Saturday will prove whether our work was good. We are still in communication with people who have asked for suggestions, so we hope even our expectations will be exceeded by the number of turn-outs Saturday."

PALM, FERN AND HIBISCUS SHOW IS REMARKABLE

arrangement had been completed this morning. Long tables have been provided for different classes of blossoms. One table has only flowers from imported, or "maihini" plants, others are given up to the exhibits of various collectors. Another table has specimens of the leaves from the different varieties of hibiscus, the foliage varying as widely as do the flowers.

The largest collection is that of the U. S. experiment station, which has one table containing individual blooms of about 300 varieties, while bordering an elevated platform, in the center of the great room, are some 150 grafted hibiscus plants from the station, many of which are in bloom. These grafted plants are a part of the one or more grafts which have been made by Valentine Holt of the experiment station staff, to be exhibited at the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco next year. Much of the credit for new forms of this plant is due to Mr. Holt, who has been enthusiastically at work for a number of years, during which time he has produced some 120 new hybrids.

The show will close at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Many Hibiscus Exhibitors.
